■ What makes a good NWE project?

A good project...

addresses one of the nine specific objectives under the five North-West Europe Programme priorities.

is based on a sound territorial analysis in relation to the identified challenge.

demonstrates that the best way to tackle this challenge is transnational cooperation.

involves different types of partners that complement each other with their competences, experiences and levels of expertise.

implements joint approaches and solutions that can be scaled up and/or taken up by target territories and stakeholders during and after the project.

■ Who are we?

The Interreg North-West Europe Programme is part of the European Cohesion Policy and is financed by the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF). Created to foster cooperation in North-West Europe, our Programme seeks projects that will deliver results to improve the quality of life of citizens and reduce disparities within the regions.

We co-finance up to 60% of the budget of projects that address one of our five priorities. The total budget available for the 2021-2027 NWE Programme is €310 million.

■ Who can apply?

Any public or private organisation that is a legal entity can participate in an Interreg NWE project. The lead partner must be an organisation which is non-profit or governed by public law.

Project partnerships must be made up of at least three organisations from three different countries. At least two of these partners must be from the North-West Europe Programme area.
